Wonderstruck

Directed by Todd Haynes

Wednesday, July 4 / 7 pm

Thursday, July 5 / 9 pm

Saturday, July 7 / 9 pm

Todd Haynes (Carol, Far from Heaven) returns with a marvelous time-travelling tale. Based on The Invention of Hugo Cabret, author Brian Selznick's YA novel, this dazzlingly inventive drama runs on parallel tracks, following the fortunes of two deaf 12-year-olds: Ben (Oakes Fegley), a lad in 1977 Michigan who loses his mother (Michelle Williams), and Rose (luminous newcomer Millicent Simmonds), a girl in 1927 New Jersey who is obsessed with the silent screen star Lillian Mayhew (Julianne Moore, channeling Lillian Gish).

Sunday, July 8 / 3 pm

On an unforgiving, snow swept frontier, a group of bloodthirsty bounty hunters, led by the vicious Loco (Klaus Kinski), prey on a band of persecuted outlaws who have taken to the hills. The price on each head is collected, one after another, until only a mute gunslinger named Silence (Jean-Louis Trintignant) stands between the innocent refugees and the greed and corruption of the bounty hunters. In this harsh, brutal world, the lines between right and wrong aren't always clear and good doesn't always triumph over evil. This new 2K restoration features superb photography and a haunting score from the Maestro, Ennio Morricone. Director Sergio Corbucci's bleak, brilliant and violent vision of an immoral, honourless west is widely considered to be among the very best, and most influential, Euro-Westerns ever made.

"An entrancing, deeply moving effort, one that is certain to steal the hearts of audiences."

— BRADLEY WARREN, THE PLAYLIST

"The best film I've seen so far at Cannes... hauntingly lyrical... a work of heartbreaking beauty."

— BILGE EBIRI, VILLAGE VOICE

Acclaimed at every major film festival from Sundance to Berlin, The Rider has won 13 major awards, including the Director's Fortnight Award at last year's Cannes Film Festival. A young cowboy named Brady (Brady Jandreau), once a rising star of the rodeo circuit, is warned that his competition days are over after a tragic riding accident. Brady finds himself wondering what he has to live for when he can no longer do what gives him a sense of purpose: riding and competing. In an attempt to regain control of his fate, Brady undertakes a search for new identity and tries to redefine his idea of what it means to be a man in the heartland of America.

"Jessie Buckley gives what can only be called a breakout performance as Moll. She is thrillingly alive, Buckley is riveting. You can't look away." — SHEILA O'MALLEY, ROGEREBERT.COM

A nominee for the Platform prize at the 2017 Toronto International Film Festival, this debut film by Michael Pearce is a riveting, slow-burning thriller about the limits of love and the darkness within us. Yearning to escape from her stifling home life, Moll (Jessie Buckley), the black sheep of an upper-crust family on the isle of Jersey, impulsively moves in with Pascal (Johnny Flynn), a rugged hunter with a mysterious past. When a local girl goes missing following a string of murders, Moll must decide what to trust: her own instincts, or the mysterious man with whom she has made a home.

But the greatest challenge of all is that she has to bring her dysfunctional family with her. Her neurotic aunt, her cranky uncle, her wayward cousin, as well as the memory of her late uncle all come along for the ride making it a fun and amazing adventure. "A powerful, intricately constructed meditation on the mysteries of the heart, the elusiveness of truth and the injustices of the Japanese justice system, in which the scales are tipped in favor of the prosecution... a masterpiece." — MARK SCHILLING, JAPAN TIMES

Japanese master Hirokazu Kore-eda (After the Storm, Our Little Sister) recently won Cannes highest honour, the Palme d'Or for his new feature Shoplift but prior to that he created this beautiful Rashomon like film about a man accused of murder. The Third Murder is a powerfully moving story of a man struggling to find the truth while questioning his own faith in the law. Leading attorney Shigemori (Masaharu Fukuyama, star of Kore-eda's Like Father, Like Son) takes on the defence of murder/robbery suspect Misumi who had served time in jail for another murder 30 years ago. Shigemori's chances of winning the case seem low - his client freely admits his guilt, despite facing the death penalty if he is convicted. As he digs deeper into the case, as he hears the testimonies of the victim's family and Misumi himself, and the once confident Shigemori begins to doubt whether his client is the murderer after all.

"A rich, emotionally complex portrait of a woman who, like Denis herself, will not let herself be boxed in. Binoche blissfully portrays a woman of a certain age trying to find happiness at a time when it feels like a rare commodity." — HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

Juliette Binoche delivers a luminous performance in this deliciously witty, sensuously romantic new film from acclaimed director Claire Denis (White Material). Isabelle (Binoche) is a divorced Parisian painter searching for another shot at love, but she refuses to settle for the parade of all-too-flawed men who drift in and out of her life. There's a caddish banker (Xavier Beauvois) who, like many of her lovers, happens to be married; a handsome actor (Nicolas Duvauchelle) who's working through his own hang-ups; and a sensitive fellow artist (Alex Descas) who's skittish about commitment. What reads like a standard romantic comedy premise is transformed, in the hands of master filmmaker Denis, into something altogether deeper, more poignant, and more perceptive about the profound mysteries of love.

Friday, August 31 / 8:30 pm

One of the greatest midnight movies ever made, Basket Case has now been released in a brand new 4K restoration by the Museum of Modern Art. What's in the basket? You'll love finding out. This is the debut gutter-trash symphony from Frank Henenlotter (Brain Damage). Stealthily filmed in the toilet bowls of Times Square it's chock-full of demented fury. Duane and his brother Belial are ex-Siamese twins who arrive in New York with a purpose — REVENGE! Against everyone! That's enough to propel any movie. But here, the deal is even sweeter because Belial is a telepathic monstrosity who lives in a wicker basket. Basket Case features an incredibly grotesque monster puppet that will burn its essence on the surface of your brain until the day you die. Hilarious, disgusting, and over-the-top in every way possible, this movie plays out like Herschell Gordon Lewis directing Freaks on the set of Taxi Driver.

"At a time in America when we've seen the judicial branch of government acting as a democratic bulwark, this message feels urgent and important." — ALISON GILLMOR, WINNIPEG FREE PRESS

At the age of 84, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg has developed a breathtaking legal legacy while becoming an unexpected pop culture icon. But without a definitive Ginsburg biography, the unique personal journey of this diminutive, quiet warrior's rise to the nation's highest court has been largely unknown, even to some of her biggest fans — until now. RBG is a revelatory documentary exploring Ginsburg's exceptional life and career.

"A love story on so many levels — Perlman's love of music, of the violin, of life itself!" — RAY ROGERS, THE HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

One of the most celebrated musicians of our time, Israeli-American violinist Itzhak Perlman shines in Alison Chernick's engaging portrait of the gregarious master at home in New York, and on tour in Israel. It has been said that Perlman's violin playing transcends mere performance (violinmaker Amnon Weinstein calls it "praying with the violin") to evoke the struggles of real life: before the classical superstar came the polio survivor whose parents emigrated from Poland to Israel, and the young man who struggled to be taken seriously as a music student when schools saw only his disability. Itzhak himself is funny, irreverent and self-deprecating, his life story unspools in conversations with masterful musicians, family and friends, and most endearingly with Toby, his devoted wife of 50 years.

"Five stars. Focusing on the secret 1992 peace talks in Oslo between participants on both the Israeli and Palestinian sides of the equation, this is a film that is at once hopeful, but also feels as dangerous and tense as a great espionage thriller."

— GREG KLYMKIW, CANADIAN FILM CORNER

In The Oslo Diaries, directors Mor Loushy and Daniel Sivan bring us a riveting account of 1,100 days of secret talks, as told by the people who were there at the table. Their detailed and often emotional diary entries recount the political intrigue, fiery rhetoric, unlikely friendships and overwhelming desire for peace that were at the heart of the negotiations. In 1992, with Israeli-Palestinian relations at an all-time low and any communication punishable with jail, a small group of Israelis and Palestinians gathered in Oslo — secretly and illegally. The meetings came to be known as the 'Oslo Accords' and they changed the Middle East forever.

Brimstone and Glory

Directed by Viktor Jakovleski
2017, USA, 67 min

Friday – Sunday, August 24 – 26 / 7 pm

Wednesday – Friday, August 29 – 31 / 7 pm

The National Pyrotechnic Festival in Tultepec, Mexico is a site of festivity unlike any other in the world. In celebration of San Juan de Dios, patron saint of firework makers, conflagrant revelry engulfs the town for ten days. Artisans show off their technical virtuosity, up-and-comers create their own rowdy, lo-fi combustibles, and dozens of teams build larger-than-life papier-mâché bulls to parade into the town square, adorned with fireworks that blow up in all directions. More than three quarters of Tultepec's residents work in pyrotechnics, making the festival more than revelry for revelry's sake. It is a celebration that anchors a way of life built around a generations-old, homegrown business of making fireworks by hand. For the people of Tultepec, the National Pyrotechnic Festival is explosive celebration, unrestrained delight and real peril.

Cielo

Directed by Alison McAlpine
2017, Canada / Chile, 78 min
Spanish, French & English with subtitles

Saturday & Sunday, August 25 & 26 / 5 pm

"Alison McAlpine's Cielo is a love letter to the sky. It's also a heckuva a beauty, especially seen from a location used by astronomers because of its vastness and lack of light pollution. Cinematographer Benjamin Echazarreta has done a fine job of capturing that beauty... mysterious and absorbing."

— DARIA GAMLIEL, CINETALK.NET

"Cielo: A beautiful film!! Photography, sound, structure, subject matter — enough to lift the spirits out of any earthly trough. A moving film in all senses of that word." — WALTER MURCH

The Atacama Desert in Northern Chile is the driest desert on Earth, which makes it an astronomer's paradise. With perfect climate and geography, and minimal light pollution, it's an ideal place to observe and research celestial bodies. Through masterful cinematography, the skies in the desert are captured in breathtaking detail. While the observations of the filmmaker guide us through our inevitable existential questioning, we meet astronomers, residents and travellers who live and work in the desert, all of whom share a deep connection to the place. Their stories and poetry touch upon the physical and metaphysical, as we bear witness to an enigmatic place rich with history and folklore. Striking the perfect balance between poetic reflection, myth, existential query and science, the film invites us to gaze up at a dazzling, star-studded sky and marvel at our place in an infinite, unknowable universe.

"A work of rare brilliance, thanks first and foremost to its miraculous co-stars Robert De Niro and Charles Grodin, a pairing that has rarely if ever been matched in the annals of buddy comedy. Midnight Run is still one of the best action comedies ever made." — PAUL GREENWOOD, ALONE IN THE DARK

July/August Staff Picks

Summer is a time to chill and search out movies you aren't going to see at the multiplex. Movies like Brimstone and Glory – an amazing documentary about the National Pyrotechnic Fireworks Festival in Mexico where teams show off their chops in creating explosive fireworks. Hirokazu Kore-eda's riveting courtroom drama The Third Murder was one of my favourite films at last year's Toronto International Film Festival. Kore-eda just won the Cannes Grand Prize last month for his new film Shoplifters. Finally the imagineNATIVE festival presents Femme Totale, an evening of great new works by emerging Indigenous women filmmakers including works by Kristin Flattery and Victoria Inglis, and introduced by filmmaker and actress Michelle Latimer.

— DAVE BARBER, Cinematheque Programming Coordinator

The July/August program has a lot of cool movies to check out from Wonderstruck to Midnight Run. But the film I am most excited to see is Remains, Human by Cody Halcrow (playing with Basket Case). Halcrow is great new voice in Winnipeg film and his short horror film looks like it's right up my alley. I can't wait to check out Remains, Human! Go Cody Go!

— MILOS MITROVIC, Cinematheque Technical Liaison

Basket Case, a grotesquely creepy, garishly gross, penultimately perverse and mordantly hilarious 1982 horror classic, in which a dweeb's deformed bloodthirsty Siamese Twin brother wreaks havoc on the mean streets of New York, is one of the best no-budget indies of all time. The 4K restoration captures every frame of filth and sleaze with the kind of care and love the film deserves. If you have a weak stomach, please pity our cleaners and bring a receptacle for your, uh, ejections. — GREG KLYMKIW, Executive Director

When looking at the films coming up this summer, Wonderstruck really stood out to me. The inclusion of young deaf actress, Millicent Simmonds playing a deaf character is a choice I hope more directors take as well. Following the success of Carol, Todd Haynes has really shown himself to be a talented director, who will not disappoint. Beast is another film I am looking forward to seeing due to hearing so many good things. With it being Michael Pearce's first feature I am excited to see his career progress and be able to witness the beginning.

— THOMAS HANAN, Cinematheque Box Office

The Femme Totale program promises to be an engaging series of short works by indigenous women artists. It has a selection of films from 2015 & 2016, so for anyone interested in seeing modern short works this is a great opportunity. The Third Murder by Hirokazu Kore-eda (director of After the Storm) is a film I'm very excited to see. We have shown his films in the past and I've always really enjoyed them. Make sure to check it out when it plays! — DYLAN BAILLIE, Cinematheque Projection

Find some time between barbecues, summer festivals and camping this summer to come out to the air conditioned Cinematheque for some great flicks. The tender and beautiful The Rider by Chloé Zhao is one of my favourite films of the year and heralds an exciting new female voice in cinema. Let the Sunshine In is the latest from French master filmmaker Claire Denis, with a powerhouse performance of complexity and nuance by the always wondrous Juliette Binoche! The horror hound within me is screaming a little with our run of the new Basket Case restoration, which will pair terrifyingly-well with Winnipeg director Cody Halcrow's short Remains, Human. — DAVID KNIPE, Cinematheque Operations Manager

This summer, I'm excited to see Michael Pearce's "disturbing adult fairy tale" Beast. My guilty-pleasure is romantic movies with a dark edge, something that I am sure Beast will accomplish beautifully and mysteriously. This movie is for those of us who are tired of the usual Hollywood romances and want to be challenged. I am also thrilled to see Brimstone and Glory by Viktor Jakovleski. Pyrotechnics are thrilling on the surface, but for Mexico's National Pyrotechnic Festivals, things are taken to a whole new terrifying and breath-taking level. Quite frankly, I was already clenching my butt during the trailer. — JESSICA SEBURN, Cinematheque Box Office

I think often about how living in a big city facilitates an ease of swift accessibility and connectivity to anything. But this disconnects us from nature and due to the intense light pollution in a big city – you barely ever even see a lone star in the night sky and this makes you forget that you live on a tiny planet amid millions and millions other planets, suns, solar systems and galaxies. So, I find myself especially excited to have the opportunity to gaze into the infinite unknown of the beautiful, breathtaking natural night sky of the Atacama Desert in Alison McAlpine's new film Cielo. Also, tapeheads rejoice for the restoration of Basket Case! I love me some 80s trash horror with killer monster puppets!

— JAIMZ ASMUNDSON, Cinematheque Programming Director

If you were unable to catch Sergio Corbucci's bleak spaghetti western The Great Silence I would recommend coming to the shows we have added in July. My other recommendation would be to check out recent Palme d'Or winner Hirokazu Kore-eda's The Third Murder, a very different take on his family dramas we have shown before. — ERIC PETERSON, Cinematheque Projection
